SUPPLEMENT TO

1. Sergei Glasunov, a trade clerk of the Russian Board of Trade in Moscow, and a member of the Trade Delegation of the USSR in London, arrived in Singapore on August 16, 1948, reportedly to make arrangements for the purchase of rubber. He is said to be a member of the Russian Communist Party organization within the Soviet Trade Delegation. While in Singapore he received many telegrams from Raznoimport dealing with the buying and shipment of rubber. He also received telegrams from Exportleb in Moscow regarding coconut oil, and two telegrams from Arinitchev in Shanghai ordering him to contact Henry Lee.

2. Henry Lee is a Bangkok merchant who received direct communications from Moscow on rubber matters and who buys rubber for the Russians in Singapore. He is believed by source to be connected in some way with Soviet propaganda films in Shanghai. Glasunov contacted Lee daily until Lee departed from Singapore on 15 September 1948 for Bangkok.

3. Glasunov also contacted the following while in Singapore:

- (a) J. Revel, acting manager of Moine Comte Co., Ltd., which is a general importer and exporter of local products. Revel has a Russian born wife.
 - (b) Warren of Moine Comte Co., Ltd.
- (c) Kolff of American Corporation, formerly the American Trading Company (Malaya). Kolff has a Russian born wife.
 - (d) Harrison and Crossfield, rubber buying agents for the Russians.
 - (e) Rotterdam Trading Company, rubber buying agents for the Russians.

(f) WONG Shou-Seong (HUANG Shou-hsiang, 東京) or WEE Siew-siong (HUANG Shou-jang, 東京) of the Amateur Photo Studio. This man, who was a committee member of the Japanese sponsored Chinese Association during the occupation had been in contact with Nikolai Lytkin when he was in Singapore.

(g) Anglo-French and Bendixsens Ltd. This company made reservations at the Goodwood Park Hotel for Glasunov.

4. Glasunov toured the Federation for three weeks in September 1948 and while in Kuala Lumpur contacted John Redhill, a former Russian, now stateless.

- Glasunov, who is not a rubber expert, was reprimanded by Moscow for allowing inferior rubber to be shipped to Russia. In early October he made application for a three months extension to his Singapore visa, but was refused. His London office, when informed of this refusal, notified him to remain in Singapore while the difficulties were ironed out in London. In spite of these orders Glasunov left Singapore for Bangkok on 21 October by KIM plane. As a Communist Glasunov is a coward who would probably hesitate before carrying out some orders he might be given.
- 6. While in Singapore Glasumov was instructed by his London office to meet Timophey Giorgievich Moskelev, a member of the Soviet Trade Delegation in London, upon his arrival in Singapore. (See 25X1A2g
